

More on Linux Commands

1. What is the difference between the signal CTRL-C and CTRL-Z sent to a process in progress?
2. How do you get help on a unix terminal?
3. How do you find out all processes that are currently running?
4. What are two functions the move MV command can carry out?
5. What is the difference between tar and zip?
6. What command clears the content of your terminal display?
7. What is the default directory path for system log files?
8. What is the command to change your password?
9. Most of the commands used by the root user and others in UNIX is located in what directory?
10. To jump to the current home user's home directory instantly from any other directory, what do you type?